

Effect of the Acceleration of Patent Examinations by reviews on the Utility Model System

If the Utility Model System becomes more attractive, applications for a patent will shift to applications for utility model registration. Patent examinations are expected to be increase by about 36% of the sifted applications.

